Introduction . . .

The planet Earth is an everchanging sphere and one of the greatest changes ever to occur is the change that we are in the process of experiencing with high technology. For the first time in the history of mankind, the computer was declared "Man of the Year." This announcement made by Time magazine in its January 3rd issue leads one to the conclusion that a working knowledge of high technology is imperative. This need leads to the theme of our book, the philosophy of Frederick Douglass.

Frederick Douglass, a firm believer in universal suffrage, women's rights, and world peace was emphatic about his concern for education. He believed that a complete and comprehensive education was the means to meet the challenges of the future. His philosophy on education is perhaps more relevant now than ever. Classes must be taken more seriously. Novels must be read weekly and newspapers studied daily. At a time like this, the initiative must be taken by the student himself. At a time like this, students must realize that no one owes nor gives one anything. At a time like this, students must realize that one must learn, grow, and change with the rest of the world. And . . .

...this, searing irony, not convincing needed. Oh! had I the ability, and could I reach your ear, I would today pour out a storm of ridicule, blasting each with reason, and stern rebuke. It is not light that needed, but fire; it is not the gentle shower that we need, the weak, the white, and the wake. The feeling of the nation must be roused; the conscience of the nation must be startled; the hypocrisy of the nation must be exposed; and its sins must be denounced."

Frederick Douglass

...and we, the inheritors of Frederick Douglass's legacy, must catch that fire, challenge our own priorities, and prepare for a future so different that we can scarcely imagine it.

Dedication:

Once a happy-go-lucky biology teacher at Douglass, Mr. Fortson must sometimes wonder how he lost the frogs and found the paper. Consider that in the eleven years in which he has served as Assistant Principal, his office has processed approximately 24,200 lunch card applications and evaluated each of them, assigned approximately 24,200 lockers and (repaired many of them), filed approximately 24,200 attendance cards, and verified formal enrollment for six days at the beginning of each school year, for approximately seventy-three homerooms a year (that is verified approximately 52,998 enrollment reports.)

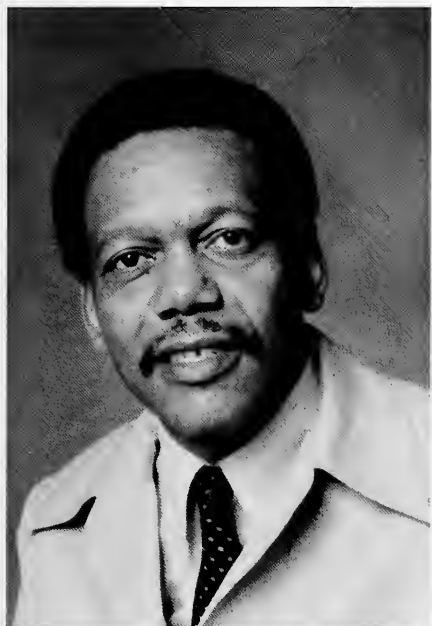

Students are aware of his role as a disciplinarian, but many way not realize that he spends every other Saturday (approximately 200 over the eleven years) participating in Douglass's unique Saturday work program which serves as an alternative to suspension for many students.

As a member of the administrative team, his attendance at and supervision of countless athletic events helps make these activities possible. Further in addition to his supervision of the basement and first floors, having moved his office from the familiar second floor location this year.

His is one of those tough, demanding jobs that requires dedication, commitment and tremendous investment of time. It doesn't have much glory, but it is essential to the smooth functioning of the school. It is therefore, with sincere appreciation that we dedicate this 1983 edition of the Polaris to Mr. Carver Fortson. We thank you for your investment in us.

Lockett recommended Tales of Shakespeare By Charles and Mary Lamb to students to read. The significance of the book to her was that it was a wonderful opportunity for the very young to become acquainted with and enjoy Shakespeare's plays which are told in simple, easy to read fairy tale — like stories.

How to Read a Book by Mortimer J. Adler

Adler's How To Read a Book is perhaps the best book on the market in teaching one how to read a book. IN his own words Adler says, "the art of reading analytically, interpretively, and critically is indispensible only for the kind of reading by which the mind passes from a state of understanding more, and for reading the few books that are capable of being read with increasing profit over and over again." This book is highly recommended for high school seniors.

A Class Of Strong-Minded Individuals

The members of the class of nineteen-hundred eighty-seven was so enlightened that it was not surprising that they all chose to be a part of the Frederick Douglass High School family. From observation, one can come to the conclusion that this class has a wide range of knowledge (savior-faire), and that they had much insight into what was going on around them. This was most likely a result of their consciousness, perception, and comprehension of the things that they saw, heard, and read.

"There is no defense or security for any of us except in the highest intelligence and development of all."

According to counselor, H. Bigelow, the class of nineteen-hundred eighty-seven, "has a broader base of information and was exposed to more than many classes preceding it." The great span of knowledge which has been digested by the sub-freshmen class has caused it to develop a great desire to learn. This year there was a greater demand to take advanced classes than there were slots for. This shows that the incentive to learn was very great this year. Even more thrilling was the new observation that the advanced classes were more evenly distributed between boys and girls. This may be a trend that more males were taking more of an interest in their academic courses.

From a sub-freshman's point of view, one may find that the usual English and mathematics classes were the most challenging. But newly arriving on the scene of challenging classes was the PECE course. Some sub-freshmen found that literature and composition were mind-boggling. Trying to say and attempting to write on particular subjects in a specified form was antagonizing. In mathematics, Algebra I, was a new concept which for some sub-freshmen which takes some time to comprehend. Along with the Algebra I class some sub-freshmen were exposed to computers, which was also a challenge. The PECE class was a course that primarily gave experience in different aspects of pursuing a career.

Also, from a sub-freshman's point of view, Band, Chorus, and Science were among the most enjoyable classes. Band, Chorus, and Science were classes which most sub-freshmen found to be rigorous and fun.

"If you teach him how to read, he'll want to know how to write, and this accomplished, he'll be running away with himself."

New Requirements

The Atlanta Board of Education has changed the requirements for the entering eighth grade high school students. Now, instead of the eighth grade counting towards graduation, it shall be counted separately. The new requirements now demand that an eighth grader pass at least thirteen classes, all of which are specified classes. These classes, include three quarters of English, Math, two quarters of Social Science, and one quarter of Science, Physical Education, Health, PECE, and an elective.

The Mathematics Department offers the courses of Laboratory Mathematics, Fundamentals of Mathematics and Elementary Algebra to eighth graders. Laboratory Mathematics deals with the study of the development of the decimal system, expanded notation, and the study of conditional and compound sentences. Fundamentals of Mathematics deals with metric and non-metric geometry, the national number system and operations with rational numbers. Finally, Elementary Algebra involves the study of the foundation of algebra, graphing, and simple quadratic equations.

A Bright New Attraction In The Counseling Center

Note: this quiz will not affect your grade! Name one of the brightest new attractions in the counseling center this year. Having a hard time? Well here is a hint. It was not a new airplane, not a swimming pool nor a Pac-Man set. The new attraction in the FDA counseling center was the addition of new counselor, Mrs. J. Connors.

Mrs. Connors came to Douglass from R.J. Bunche Middle School. She had only been here a few months when the Polaris Staff decided to interview her.

Mrs. Connors showed a strong commitment to her students.

stated that she tried to discourage students from unattainable goals. She said, wistfully, that "not every student can be a Doctor 'J'. (as though she wished that those who wished to, could).

Mrs. Connors had one major point she wanted to make before she had to get back to her busy schedule. She stated "When you're down and out remember, there's always a light at the end of the tunnel."

"Those who profess to favor freedom, and yet depreciate agitation, are men who want rain without thunder and lightning."

"I prefer the substance to the shadow."

Her first goal was to see to their academic and emotional potential was reached. Mrs. Connors commented "I want to help students develop a sense of self worth." In order to achieve her goal Mrs. Connors set up an interview with every last freshman to discuss his future plans and dreams. However, Mrs. Connors

Also, like many ninth graders, Anthony had some initial problems with the understanding of the new requirements. They interfered with his class scheduling. He wished to take a computer course but he had "to many new requirements to fit in."

Freshman, do you recognize these few items? If you do not, take heed. Did you know the freshmen class must have attended school a compulsory 180 days a year? They also had to have twenty-one carnegie units (or 315 quarter hours) in order to graduate. They must successfully pass the Georgia Basic Skills Test (BST) and demonstrate life coping skills. If you did not know these things read on.

This year the Georgia Board of Education set down a new set of requirements for the ninth grade class. Some of the competencies the freshmen class must successfully pass are, Health and Safety, Leisure time Activities, Civil Rights, and Responsibilities and many more. These competencies can be fulfilled by successfully completing courses such as physical education, chorus, Horticulture, drawing, and painting. The student must also have completed, before graduating, classes which demonstrate the student's knowledge of "the basic structure and function of the American system of government," and classes which define citizens rights and responsibilities. With these rigorous requirements ahead, the class of eighty-six had a demanding four years ahead.

Who was the president of the Freshman class at Douglass during the 1982-83 school year? It was not Billy Carter, nor Richard Prior. The president for the 1982-83 school year was none other than Jeffry Bond.

Jeffry had three major goals for the school year: to increase school spirit, to increase attendance at all games, and to increase counseling sessions. The latter, he felt, was vital to the understanding of the new requirements and the switch to the semester system. Jeffry went into office with the drive and determination to accomplish something for his class. He felt it was his "duty" to get the job done.

Jeffry's word of advice for his classmates was to "Have some one to look up to so you can see how hard they tried."

Jeffry hoped to run for future offices and eventually become a major factor in the student body government.

A Look At Sophomore Requirements

The class of 1985 has new requirements that have to be met before they can graduate. This class is the first to have to meet these requirements.

College bound sophomores were expected to take these classes for three quarters:

Geometry
Biology
American History
Foreign Language
Health/Home Economics

There are also other requirements that must be met before once. The portion of the test, (Math/Reading), that was not passed would have to be made up in a Remediation Course. No credit would be earned in these remediation courses, so he/she might have to take courses in summer school, in order to advance with his/her class.

The class of 1985 had a great challenge before it which they prepared to meet with the best of their abilities.

"The black man is linked to his brother by indissoluble ties. The one cannot be truly free while the other is a slave."

"America cannot always sit as a queen in peace and repose prouder and stronger governments than this have been shattered by the bolts of a just God."

graduation. They are:
Health/Safety
Career Planning
U.S. History
Economic/Free Enterprise/Business
Citizenship
Personal Finance

Students who wished to graduate in 1985 must take the Basic Skills Test (BST), in addition to meeting the academic requirements. If one did not pass this test, he/she would be given the opportunity to take it five more times in order to pass it

The tenth graders interviewed said the BST was only a common sense test.

Roni Sullivan, 10-13, said, "All in all I think that the BST was an overall good test that the Public School system administered. And the class of '85's test scores should encourage others to strive higher.

Jonathan Aaron, 10-1 said, "The BST is a good test for us to take, because some of the students have forgotten the Basics, and they need to be reminded that they're going to have to know them, not only to graduate, but to function in the outside world.

Phoebe Smith — 10-12 said, "When I found out that I had to take the BST, I was very nervous." She felt that most of her classmates felt the way she did.

Being a sophomore not only meant that you were in the tenth grade, it also meant that you had two more years until you could sit on the floor of the boy's gymnasium, and one more year until you ordered class rings. But being a sophomore also meant more than those material things that seemed so important to us. It also meant that you were a year older and a bit more mature. You were given greater responsibilities, and you were expected to carry them out to the best of your abilities. You were expected to be well behaved without supervision. You were given more and better opportunities to improve your attitude toward life. So, being a sophomore prepared you to go to another grade and it prepared you to become a better person.

"Challenge" is the word that sophomores used to describe the graduation requirements they had to complete. One of these requirements is the Basic Skills Test (BST). Clifford Strong, president of the Sophomore Class, said that the underclassmen were more privileged than the upperclassmen because they were taking this test. "By Taking this test," He said "we are able to increase our academic level in test taking." He felt that the test was very easy and that a high percentage of his tenth grade classmates would pass. He also said, "This test is actually preparing us for college because, college will not teach us the basics. We will have to know them when we get there."

The Curriculum States

For the class of eighty-four, the curriculum is changing. The requirements are different from those for the class of eighty-three. The Eighth Grade does not count towards graduation for this class or the classes following it. Next year, quarters are to become semesters and quarter hours will become units.

The science curriculum states that one must have taken 15 hours in physical science and 15 hours in biological science for a nometry during their junior year if one had started taking algebra in their eighth grade year.

Also like math, English has no required classes. One needed 60 quarter hours to graduate. There was a balance between writing and reading in these classes.

Usually in the eleventh grade one would take U.S. Democracy, U.S. Reform, and Modern U.S.

"Nothing but rigid training, long persisted in, can perfect the character of men and women."

"Every hour sees the black man elbowed out of employment by some newly arrived emigrant whose hunger and whose color are thought to give him a better title to the place."

total of 30. There is also an additional 15 hours that one needs in science or math. The physical science classes include earth science, energy and measurements, and physics. Courses offered for the eleventh graders are human biology, horticulture, chemical structure, physics, and genetics.

Mr. Woods stated that there are no required classes but that one needs 30 hours towards graduation. However usually students take math up to their senior year. Usually one would be taking advanced algebra, elementary functions, and trigo-provided that you have not taken the American History classes during the tenth grade. One also took U.S. Law as a citizenship course, which one had to have to graduate. Sociology and psychology classes usually were taken in the eleventh and twelfth grades if one wished to continue in social studies after completing the required classes.

The junior year had finally come upon the class of eighty-four. Many couldn't believe the next to the last year was finally here but it was surely felt. The pressures from demanding classes and responsibilities and the realization of post secondary school careers were anticipated. It was the year of tests namely the PSAT and the ASVAB. The PSAT was the test which qualified students for National Achievement and Merit Scholarships competition and also prepared students to take the SAT. There were mixed feelings about the PSAT among the juniors" ... it wasn't very hard but challenging." However, most agreed the ASVAB was " ... an unconventional method in testing your mental attitude and there was no way you could complete it."

The California Achievement Test, CAT for short is a standardized achievement test given each spring for students enrolled in grades K-12. It measures one's achievement in prereading, reading, spelling, language, mathematics, and reference skills. The CAT is administered to give teachers an outlook on how to plan instructional programs for their students. It also provides an objective basis for assessing the overall achievement level of students for evaluating the goals and the objectives of the school system.

Eleventh grade president Micheal Bond decided to run for office because he felt he could do the job of President effectively. After being inaugurated, he came to realize the office of President was more strenuous than he imagined. But he expected "every junior to participate in most if not all junior activities."

Often outside reading can influence one's character and values Micheal said that the book A Tale of Two Cities enabled him "to acquire leadership necessary to become president." This book influenced him because it displayed the valor and sacrifices made by the characters. This year at the Georgia State Model U.N. Frederick Douglass participants represented the country of India. They participated in a model assembly forum focused on real life problems such as the Russian invasion of Afghanistan. The participants enjoyed it for many reasons; they had an opportunity to meet students from other schools and felt sincerely involved with its activities relevant to international relations.

Students who expressed an interest in world affairs were asked to participate. Participants took extra steps in studying newspapers, magazines, and other periodicals, and paying close attention to network news. The Douglass students did exceptionally well. After Graduating Future Plans

There was more to graduating than getting a diploma. There was the waiting also — like the waiting to hear from the college you most desperately wanted to attend. First, however, one had to contend with the requirements that college demanded for admission. When looking for a college with very good academic standards. Some may have looked at the cost of room, board, and books, while others may have looked at social life they would have.

Several students found that money would be a problem when students who were outstanding in basketball, football, and ROTC. Looking back on the preparation for college, it wasn't so bad, it's just "The Way Things Were."

they went off to college, and looked into financial aid. Financial Aid was a program designed to assist needy and academically qualified undergraduate students meet their educational expenses.

Scholarships were awarded to the bright students. Most academic scholarships were given to students according to the field in which they wanted to major. Sports and military scholarships were also given. These were for

It does not take as much time as the SAT to take even though it is taken in three sections.

A College Requirement

The SAT and the ACT are college entrance tests. Every college requires one or the other. Some accept both.

The SAT is based on a person's Mathematical and English abilities. It takes approximately four hours to take the test. Out of a total score of 1600 the average score is 900. Most students think it is hard. Some students when asked their opinion said that the SAT was "unconsciously" biased". While others considered the test fair to all, they replied that it tests you on the level you are expected to be on by 12th grade. They don't expect you to make a perfect score. Most people said that from their experience, when they studied, they made better scores.

How does one study for the SAT? Among the suggestions was for one to study the dictionary for vocabulary, to do a lot of reading on various subjects, to look up all new words, and practice using them in everyday life.

The ACT test is not as popular.

The Probe Fair was a gathering of a small number of college representatives. The representatives had the necessary applications and they were always ready to answer a question. The NSSFNS fair however was more extensive. This fair had more colleges from all around. The colleges were quick to win one over with little souvenirs they gave away. The fairs gave juniors a previews so that they could begin making their choices early. For the seniors, the fairs made decision making a little bit easier. Short of touring a college campus, Probe and NSSFNS were the next best thing to being there.

Seniors

Before departing this great school, all seniors must have achieved the required quarter hours in Science, Mathematics, English, and Social Studies. In the science field, one might have found very demanding Physics on his schedule. Or if one was into knowing about the body Human Biology was an order. Trigonometry, Calculus, and Logic were the main Mathematics courses being taken. After the required sixty hours of English, Shakespeare, or Trends In Contemporary Literature might have been taken. For those who didn't prefer Literature, Occupational English, or Argumentation were good courses. For seniors wanting to know more about their own and other countries as well, World Studies could be taken. For students who wanted to know a little about countries and how they related to each other, they might have taken International Relations.

Rules for Teachers 1872

1. Teachers each day will fill lamps and clean chimneys.
2. Each teacher will bring a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the days session.
3. Make your pens carefully. You may whittle nibs to the individual taste of the pupils.
4. Men teachers may take one evening each week for counting if they go to church regularly.
5. After ten hours in school, the teachers may spend the remaining time reading the Bible or other good books.
6. Women teachers who marry or engage in unseemly conduct will be dismissed.

7. Every teacher should lay aside from each pay a goodly sum out of his earnings for his benefit during his declining years, so that he will not become a burden on society.
8. Any teacher who smokes, uses liquor in any form, frequents pool or public halls, or gets shaved in a barber shop will give good reason to suspect his worth, intentions, integrity and honesty.
9. The teacher who performs his labor faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of twenty-five cents per week in his pay, providing the Board of Education approves.

Margo said, "If I could change anything in the world it would have to be the teachers salaries. I would make them the highest paid individuals in the world. If it were not for the teachers, who lay the foundation of every human being as far as learning is concerned, no other occupation would exist — someone has to teach."

Miss Douglass Leslie Meadows

The competition for Miss Douglass was a stiff one this year. Not only were there many candidates from which to choose but the procedure for voting was slightly altered. The candidates were presented and voted on in a primary election. The remaining ten candidates wrote essays. Of these ten girls, six of them were chosen to read their essays before the student body, and were asked an impromptu question. The student body once again voted and the three winners were announced. Leslie Julianna Meadows was elected to become Miss Douglass.

After hearing her name called over the intercom, it was hard for Leslie to find the words that expressed her feelings she said, "I was shocked! Happy.", she added, "I felt the sensation of floating on 'cloud nine' without knowing where I was."

Perhaps the overriding factor in Leslie's victory was her response to her impromptu question. She was asked What animal she would like to be in George Orwell's, Animal Farm. She chose none of the animals, for they were all corrupted by power. She said, "I would rather be myself." Leslie's response gained her a standing ovation and the hearts of many Douglassonians.

And Attendants

Beth Patrice Bolden

First Attendant to Miss Douglass, Beth Patrice Bolden attributed her success to her campaign managers and the exposure she received as a varsity cheerleader. Many of her underclassmen votes, Beth said, "came from my friends from Walter White Elementary School that are now Sub-freshmen." Beth felt her presentation in the assembly helped, also. Her essay was entitled "The Effects of Reaganomics, on Young People, involving the registration and draft and cut backs on welfare benefits. When asked if she had one wish other than to be Miss Douglass, What would it be?, She replied, "I would wish for peace around the world."

Aside from the obvious glory of being elected, Beth said she gained many friends and was able to participate in various activities such as Turner High's Royal Brunch. After three months Beth still couldn't believe she was First Attendant to Miss Douglass. The thing that brought it all down to reality, Beth said, was the new friends she'd made. When asked what advice she'd give to those who would wish to run in the future, Beth said, "Stay the same, keep it to yourself and when you decide to do it, do it!"

Monica L. Cooper

Monica Cooper was in Mr. Franklin's math class when she heard the news that she was Second Attendant to Miss Douglass. When asked what her first reaction was, she replied, "Tears! Astonishment! I was really dumbfounded." Monica was happy to have this title bestowed upon her. She doesn't plan to change in any way. Monica said, "I will continue in my friendly attitude and be warm to everyone — just be myself."

Achieving that goal has given Monica the incentive to try for bigger and better things, she said, "With this accomplishment I'm more apt to excel in more of my endeavors." Winning this position of Second Attendant has given Monica a positive outlook on many things in life.

"I felt happy, nervous, jubilant and just overwhelmed. It was a real treat, and something to be proud of for a long time." This was Monica's description of her walk down the gymnasium floor, after being introduced in the coronation. We salute Monica and wish her much success and happiness.

The time has come for us to leave. The class of 1983 could hardly wait for the chance to grab the title, "Senior". It seemed as though the twelfth grade would never come. Now that the time is here, while some seniors are looking forward to June 12, others feel that it has come too quickly. We realize that we must leave Frederick Douglass High School, and we can not return.

Taking senior pictures, ordering memory books, and getting fitted for cap and gowns, seemed to be some of the most important events of our lives. They seemed to symbolize seniorship. Senior Control Day was good experience for the future workers of America. Awards were given on Senior Awards Day to reward the hard workers of the class, and to encourage underclassmen to press on.

In Memory Of

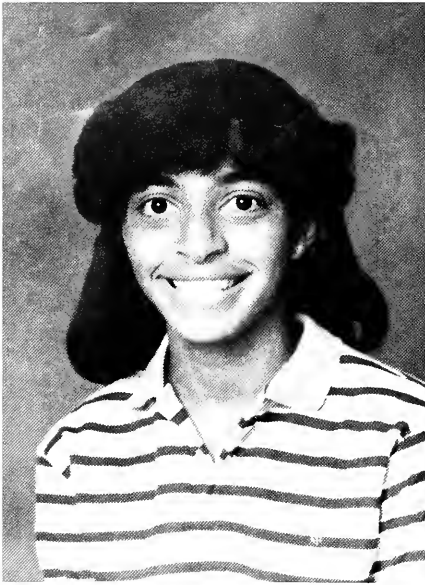

Clay Nelson

God called you home at the twinkling of an eye
There was no time to say goodbye
A million times we have cried
If loving you could have saved you, you never would have died
Death is a heartache that no one can heal,
Memories are something that no one can steal
Others may forget that you are gone
But we will remember no matter how long.

In Action

Successful Activities

This year's Senior Class meant action! The A stood for adventurous. The class attempted several new activities. Black and white pom-poms synonymous with class colors were bought for the senior pep-session and football game. The senior council started a campaign for recognizing underclassmen, setting aside appreciation days for them.

To add to the excitement of the year, senior week was a huge success! Square Pegs Day started it all off. Students were seen in wild and crazy costumes with the nurdy, preppy, and new wave looks. Many colleges and universities were represented on College Jersey Day as students wore the jersey's of their choice. We were all taken back to the early 70's with afro wigs and Dasheekies representative of Soul Brother Day. One might have thought they were at Rich's Grand White Sale, when seniors walked the halls dressed in white sheets and sandals for Toga Day. It was a kaleidoscope of colors on the last day of Senior Week — Stripe, Polka Dot, Plaid Day. Many students participated and enjoyed all the excitement.

"I panted for action, and was glad when the day, at the close of which we were to start, dawned upon us."

Preparing For A Good Year

Many of us felt that it was summer and time to rest our brains! Though school was out, some of us felt differently, and felt that we should continue to increase our knowledge, so we attended summer school. This year summer school was held at our very own Douglass High from 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Student took as many classes as they wanted, or as many as they needed, at twenty dollars per course.

"We can work and by this means we can retrieve all our losses."

Frederick Douglass

Some of the rules during summer school were a little different because shorts were not allowed and if one was absent too often, one received no credit for the course. In spite of the limitations of staying in line, the meeting of new friends took our minds off of everything.

But besides school, others attended auxiliary camp. For the first time the Flag Corps, Drum Majors, Majorettes and Northstarettes attended the same camp, Marching Auxiliaries of America at West Georgia College. The activities included, The Skit and Talent Night, Watermelon Feast, in which participants just ate watermelon and tripped out, and Individual Spirit Competition, in which each school competed for the Spirit Baton by showing the most spirit. And last but not least, the girls learned new routines which would come in handy during Marching Season.

1. Arnita Swanson and April Banks practice marching. 2. Northstarette tryouts. 3. Karen Veale and Michelle Easley decide who's going to take the cooler.

A Day In The Life Of An Astro

There is a general feeling among the students of Douglass that the school is second to none in many areas. The mainstay of the school's success is the result of one very important element. That building block in our foundation is "togetherness". The goals to better the quality of education, to maintain the quality of the learning environment, to provide a good social environment and to prepare students for future endeavors are accomplished by everyone working hand in hand daily. Dr. Butts, teacher, parents, secretarial staff, students, cafeteria staff, and custodial staff are all Astros, each representing a part of a whole — a family — striving to make every minute beneficial in a day in the life of an Astro.

The major source of the school's power is Dr. Lester W. Butts. Continuously reminding the students to be about the business of learning, he gives many of them that extra incentive to excel in their studies. Though always apologetic for interrupting the learning process, it is not unusual for an occasional reminder to go out over the intercom. He is the first to congratulate students that have achieved educational rewards around and outside of the school. During the Summer of '82 our principal applied his own philosophy and obtained his Doctorate Degree. As a E.E.D., Dr. Butts has enhanced his own educational experience, while instilling the ambition in many students to do the same.

The words of wisdom from Dr. Butts are often needed to help students through the trying schedule and rigorous academic program. Each day begins at 8:30 a.m. with homeroom. This is the place where all business is transacted. The morning announcements are presented from station WFDA, students have an opportunity to study, and they have this time to prepare for the six classes that lie ahead. Classes from Physical Education and Typing to Foreign Languages and Computer Science are offered during the day. Classes begin at 8:45, each lasting approximately 54 minutes. Three classes are held before a locker period is given. At this time students secure books for their remaining classes. Immediately following, the fourth period class begins, during which students go to lunch that is divided into three periods — A, B, and C. A full course meal is offered,

"The thing was to get the scholars and to have them thoroughly imbued with the desire to learn."

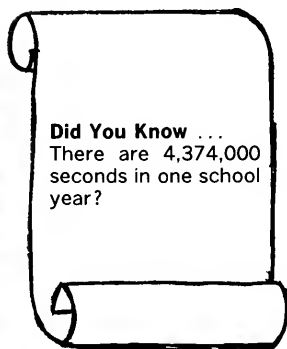

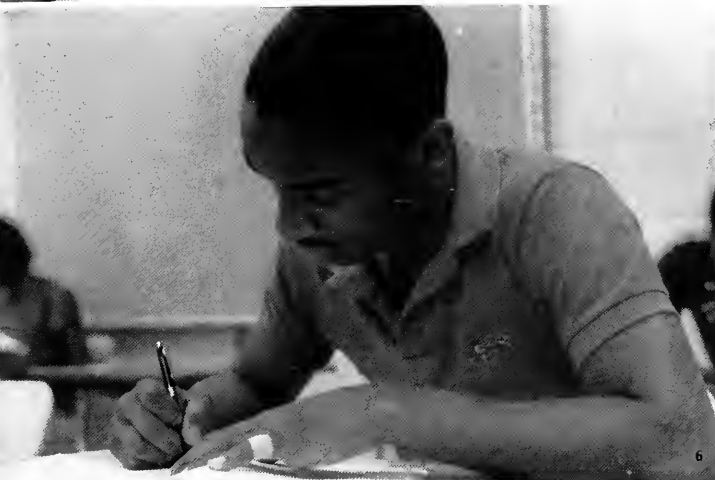

— Frederick Douglass

along with a salad bar. In addition to eating, students are then geared up and ready to attend the last two classes of the day, which ends at 3:15. At this time students prepare to leave for home. Some students walk, some are picked up by parents, other drive, and still others ride the "Cheese" (National Buses). One thing's for sure, they must all go home and prepare for the next school day.

It has been said that the teachers of Douglass are the best in the business. This quality shines in them when they are seen working that extra hour to tutor students. Each department has a day after school that is set aside for students to receive help, make up work, or receive extra credit points. But, many teachers go beyond the call of duty and remain with students on days that aren't assigned to them. The short class period is not always enough time to accomplish some of the things that need to be done in certain areas. In situations as this the "die-hard" teacher is certainly respected. Even more appreciated are those teachers who take the time to counsel students. Peer and social pressures are often more stressful than academic ones. An understanding teacher who has surpassed many an obstacle is always helpful to a student seeking counseling. Without the type of teacher an Astro's day just wouldn't be the same.

It's funny how the people that have your name, address and other personal information, the ones that put your name on the roster when enrolling and the people that handle your most important schedules and report cards are sometimes forgotten in the rush of the day. These V.I.P.'s are none other than the members of the secretarial staff. Many of them are quite visible, because they greet visitors in the main office with their warm smiles and cooperative manner. However, some are not as visible. They work under assistant principals or in the registrar's office. They contribute much to the Astro family, and should be recognized for the rough routine of the day's work. They must work with the principals, teachers, and students. These ladies are very much alive and active in the goings on at Douglass.

Did You Know . . .
There are 4,374,000 seconds in one school year?

Clockwise 1: Coach Brannon takes time out to aid Dawn Dedeaux in Geometry, after school. 2: Aaron Turpeau inspires the student body. 3: Mrs. Johnson cordially greets the day. 4: Mr. Hill, Alexander Quaynor, and Grady Dunn contemplate the answer to a problem. 5: The varsity football team says its chant in a pep session. 6: Nash Alexander works diligently during class

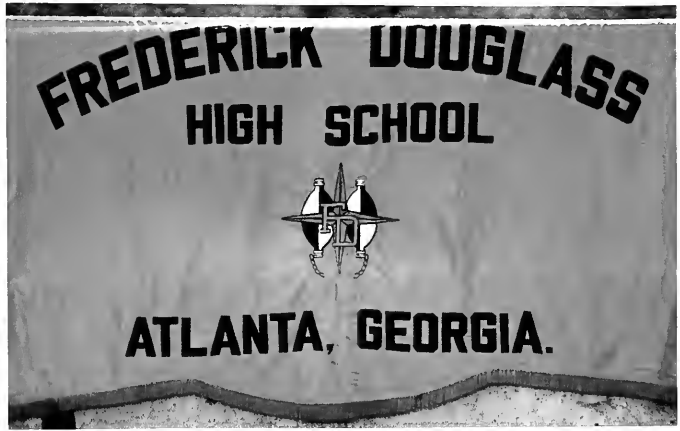

"The day dawns — the morning star is bright upon the horizon! The iron gate of our prison stands half open. One gallant rush from the North will fling it wide open, while four millions of our brothers and sisters shall march out into Liberty." Likewise, in many instances, our eyes were only half open. Yet, one gallant rush to beat the 8:30 a.m. bell would fling them wide open while some of our peers would march to the tardy line.

"The day dawns — the morning star is bright upon the horizon! The iron gate of our prison stands half open. One gallant rush from the North will fling it wide open, while four millions of our brothers and sisters shall march out into Liberty."

— Frederick Douglass

That was the beginning of our routine, yet unique school day at Douglass, where strengthening loose threads and building sound foundations was an instinct. That was our purpose. Success was a natural creation at our school, the source of our cherished memories. It was here our day began.

The Dawn Of A Successful Day

The Astros Face A

"How 'Bout D'em Astros!"

"How 'bout d'em Dawgs" and "How 'bout d'em Braves" were slogans used throughout the year to express appreciation toward teams for outstanding play and strong determination. So, it is only appropriate to include the slogan "How 'bout d'em Astros" because the Astros, too, exhibited fine play and determination when it came to football.

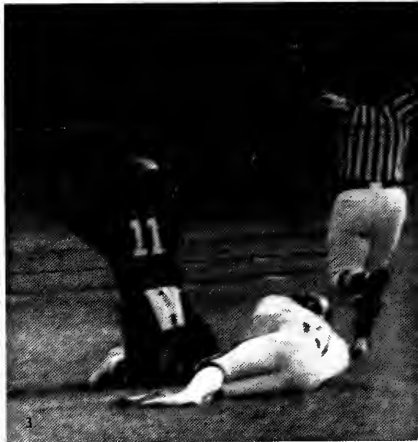

The Astros had a rigorous schedule, playing several state ranked teams. In spite of the tough schedule, they had their moments, stunning their opponents with their "plays of the century." If it wasn't Stanley Jones handing the ball to Rodney Patrick to pass to Mervin Smith in the end zone, then it was Michael Jones intercepting the ball and returning it for a touchdown.

"I prefer living a life of activity ... that I may hereafter exult in the victory, I know that victory is certain."

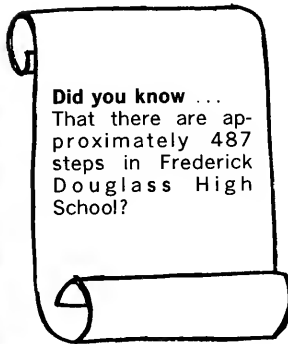

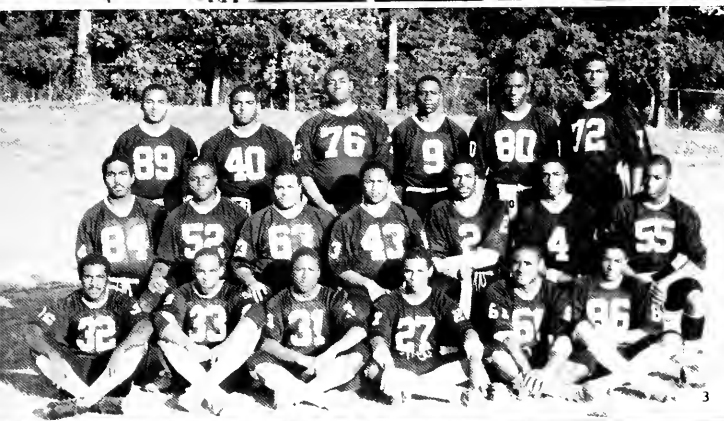

Frederick Douglass

The Astros' dedication showed that they "... prefer living a life of activity ..." and their attitudes displayed a feeling of unity among them. "Victory is certain" was an appropriate sentiment, whether in the win column or in the personal growth resulting from working together for a common goal. The coaches looked for the "perfect play" that would win the game, and the fans were appreciative of each effort made that moved the Astros closer to the goal posts.

1. Stanley Jones sprints around left end.
2. Reginald Castleberry breaks up a pass against George.
3. Rodney Patrick scores.

Homecoming Is A Night C

A Festive Occasion.

The Homecoming festivities for 1982-1983 were colorful and different from the previous thirteen years. The student body voted in a primary election, selecting the top 50 per cent of the interested candidates for Miss Douglass to continue to the writing phase of the competition. The subject was "A recent Crisis that should cause young people to take a more serious look at their future." A panel of judges composed of teachers and parents evaluated the papers, and the top six were presented as speeches to the student body.

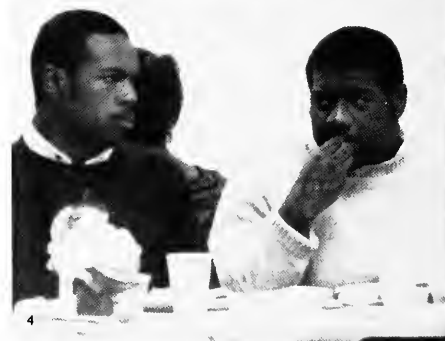

"Among the multitude of plans proposed and opinions held, with reference to our cause and condition, we succeeded in having a mind of our own, harmonizing with all others as far as we could and differing where we must."

Frederick Douglass

Still, the judging was not complete. Each candidate was then asked one question to be answered extemporaneously before the student body. Monica Cooper remarked that if she were an insect, she would want to be a butterfly because it lives freely and without limitations. Beth Bolden wished for world peace as her one wish other than becoming Miss Douglass. Leslie Meadows stated that she would rather be herself than any animal in the book Animal Farm because she realized that all of them were corrupt. Each response revealed an aspect of the corresponding candidate. The outcome was left up to the student body.

The coronation deviated from the traditional black and gold setting. Instead, the queens glowed in festive multi colored gowns for their "Night on the Spanish Riviera."

1. Rodney Patrick: "We want to win this game for you, Leslie." 2. Leslie finds her election an unforgettable moment. 3. Monica Cooper explains why she would be a butterfly. 4. Kevin Brady wishes Larry Harris would share. 5. Last minute preparations for the Royal Breakfast are busy.

We Celebrate As One

As Homecoming Week came to a close, Astros greeted Friday, dressing in black and gold as an expression of their love for Frederick Douglass High. The day started with the Royal Breakfast, and the festivities continued with the Royal Pep Session. At the call for the drummers, a tingle of anticipation was felt throughout the gym. The Royal Court was introduced by Master and Misstress of ceremonies Brian Daniel and Deborah Scandrett. Miss Douglass expressed words of gratitude and a song was sung in her honor. The band treated its fans to the popular hit, "Alligator Woman" while our own "alligator woman" entertained us. The emotions were so strong that one might have described them as feelings when

"Your whole soul is fire, every nerve strung — every faculty you possess ready to perform at a moments bigging.

— Frederick Douglass

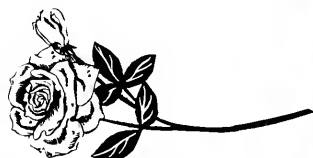

The enthusiasm continued through the afternoon to the Alumni Rap. Graduates returned to discuss their accomplishments and the years they had spent at Douglass. The Good Buddy System which helped ease the transition of students coming to Douglass from many schools was a topic of special recollection. A special moment indicated the feeling graduates had for their Alma Mater as they stood as one big family and sang the school song.

The main event of the day took place at Lakewood Stadium. High spirited fans filled the stands. Even the rain couldn't dampen the atmosphere. The team matched the feelings, scoring as soon as it got possession of the ball. However, late in the game, Washington matched the touchdown and went for two points to narrowly edge the Astros. The defense, with key interceptions by Rodney Patrick and Reginald Castleberry, kept fans hopeful until the final whistle.

A Season Of Changes

This year there were a few changes in the Marching Band. Many veterans stopped participating because of their academic work load, but through the guidance of Mr. Moody, the director, the band survived the loss. There were also changes in the student leadership. Veteran drum majors Meishawn Carney and Aaron Turpeau were joined by Virginia Perdew. This was the first time the Marching Astros had two drum majorettes at the same time. Virginia said she had always cared about the success of the band. She added that while her-

A Great Festival Season

The work of the band does not end when the cheers of football come to a close. The first performance was at the school Christmas assembly. Following this, the concert band continued preparations for the upcoming major events. The concert band was invited to perform at the Georgia Music Educators Association State Convention in Columbus on January 21, 1983. The most important event of the year was the Fifth District Band Festival held on March fifth and sixth. The band has consistently earned a rating of superior in the past years.

Many of the graduating seniors were dedicated for four or five years in the concert and marching bands. Virginia Perdue and Quentin Ware were active members of the band since their eighth grade year. Charles Locke, another dedicated veteran, contributed to the band through his membership in the concert, marching, and stage bands, as a student conductor and in his own band arrangements. Early in their careers, each of these students were "Young, ardent, and hopeful, they entered upon this new life in the full gush of unsuspecting enthusiasms."

Our auxiliary groups proved to be "hot stuff" this year. They sizzled at football games, pep sessions, and even at practice. Their long hours and hard practices resulted in excellence said, Delita Cobb, a majorette for Douglass. The Northstarettes, Flag Corps and Majorettes added a dazzling touch to any halftime show. They surrounded the band in flashy black and gold uniforms thrilling the eyes of a spectator.

Every Team Has A Season

Douglass' Eighth Grade Football Team was in full bloom during the 1982-1983 season. The team ended the season with an impressive record of four wins, one tie and one loss with two shut out games of more than thirty points each. On the other hand, the season was somewhat disappointing for the B-Team football players. Cedrick J. Eppinger, a B-Team linebacker, felt that much of the team's downfall was due to the lack of discipline among team members and the lack of experienced starters. However, the team felt that this year's record would help to motivate players for next season.

'Muscle is mighty but mind is mightier, and there is no field for the exercise of mind other than found in the cultivation of the soul.'

— Frederick Douglass

For the Softball Team, the season brought forth a second successful record of six wins and four losses. Donna Johnson a senior player, felt that the future looked bright for the Softball Team.

"Astros Jam"

"Drummers are you ready?" was the familiar phrase all awaited from the M.C., which signified the summit of an Astro Jam. No true Douglass student would be able to say "Perhaps it was thought that I lacked the spirit or the ability to reply" at one of our pep sessions because that old Astro spirit was good enough for all to respond to.

The spirit was evident in the Marching Band as they would jam to such tunes as "Aztec Fire," "Pac Man Fever," "Dance With Me" and "Knight Riders," under the leadership of our dynamic drum majors. The band auxiliaries added to the excitement with their warm smiles as they performed dazzling routines. Our Varsity Cheerleaders would uplift spirits with stirring cheers and chants. Some on-lookers of this event would show their spirit in their own way, such as wearing masks or performing new wave feats. But no matter how our spirit was aroused or how we showed it, we knew that our love for Frederick Douglass High School and everything it stood for was the purpose of our celebration. Hard Work Opens Doors

Hard Work is the key to success and President, Aaron Turpeau along with Vice-president, Micheal Doctor unlocked some doors. They set out to lead the Student Government Association in a banner year. Turpeau worked diligently to draw more students to after school meetings. The increased support from the students was to launch such projects as the Coronation Ball, Thanksgiving Basket Competition and assembly, Spirit Express Bus to out of town games, and aid in the UNICEF Drive.

The Association's efforts also focused on the engraving of a famous Frederick Douglass quote on the school's front. It also completed some programs started by the S.G.A. of the year 1981-1982, such as the Gym Restoration Program. It made possible the words, "Home of the Astos" on the boy's gymnasium. It can never be said that ...

"They assign us that place; they don't let us do it ourselves nor will they allow us a voice in the decision. They will not allow that we have a head to think, and a heart to feel, and a soul to aspire."

Due to the state of economy some families weren't able to share in the festivities that accompany the Holiday Season. The situation made the annual Thanksgiving Basket Contest one of much significance. This year's winner was Mrs. Morgan's homeroom 12-10. Grade level winners were homerooms 8-2, 9-8, 10-8, 11-8, 12-10. These baskets and others contained breakfast, lunch, and dinner foods. They provided a healthy Thanksgiving meal for many needy families in and around the Atlanta area.

An Evening Of

The PTSA Sponsors Show

"An Evening of Talent" was presented by the Parent, Teacher, Student, Association (P.T.S.A.) of Frederick Douglass High. Mrs. A. Gunn, Mr. A. Green, and Mr. C. Coleman coordinated the talent show and devoted much time to the auditions and rehearsals.

The participants involved in the talent show included parents, teachers, students, and friends of Douglass. Talents ranged from singing with Davina Mapp, to dancing with Francis and Anthony Hawkins. Mr. Stamm and Mr. Henderson, teachers at Douglass, participated in the talent show as well as Barbara Sullivann a supportive Douglass parent. Joseph Jones, M.C., kept the talent show crowd lively with his jokes and imitation of "Prince".

Besides the extraordinary talent exhibited throughout the talent show, Mrs. Weems gave out door prizes to persons with the "lucky" numbers. The prizes ranged from tote bags to free haircuts from Mitchell Brothers.

Choosing the talent show winners appeared to be a difficult task for the judges; however, the crowd's reaction proved that the judges made good choices. "Broken Arms and Crooked legs", a group of young men from Brown High and Washington High received third place, Arelishes Chapman, a senior at Douglass received the second place position, and Tracey Coley and Kim Felton, graduates of Douglass received first place. The P.T.S.A. raised $800.00 which showed outstanding support by the Douglass High family.

We Are Family

The togetherness the Douglass family shares proves what can be attained when individuals band together in all effort to bring about progress. As one reflects over the activities on which the school has focused this year, it is evident that the Parent, Teacher, Student Association made numerous contributions not only to the school, but to the community as well. As in past years, the PTSA responded financially and through personal contacts to several families whose homes were burned or who lost loved ones in death. A first time activity was the Student, Teacher, and Parent Talent Show which substituted for the school's annual Fashion Spring Tea. Much of the hard work and dedication came from its officers: Effie P. Turner (President), Virginia Hawkins (Vice President), Mary Swanson (Secretary), Thelma Weems (Asst. Secretary), Charles Earl (Treasurer), Charles Little (Parliamentarian).

Thus, the organization's involvement has been a perfect example of how understanding kindles enthusiasm and strengthens commitment, therefore, yielding an excellent relationship between the school and the home.

We were generally a unit and moved together.
— Frederick Douglass

Some Douglass Parents took it upon themselves to give other types of contributions to Douglass. Mrs. Evelyn Walthall communicated with parents in regard to their child's attendance. Ms. Constance Lee, a police officer, rendered services in relation to security at our home basketball games. Yet, whether service was rendered individually or as a group, all were working toward a common goal: the betterment of the educational opportunities for the students.

More Than Fun And Games

The YAC, Key and Jr. Civitan Clubs accomplished most of their proposed goals for the year. Although these clubs served different purposes, they were alike in many ways. One of these ways was that they were a benefit to Douglass by getting students to participate in extra activities to aid themselves and the community.

"The freedom from bodily torture and unceasing labor, had given my mind an increased sensibility and imported it to greater activity."

— Frederick Douglass

The YAC club, Youth Advisory Council, had members from all grade levels. They had monthly meetings to discuss plans for future activities. Chanra Wright, a twelfth grade member of the YAC Club, said that being a member of it meant that "I'm helping, along with other students, to create a better dining facility in our school for everyone." The Key Club consisted of eager, anxious students "waiting to do good basically for the fun of it" said one member of this club. Jr. Civitans was a smaller division of the national service organization known as Civitans, serving the same purpose as the parent organization for Douglass High.

"The year is ended, and we are now in the middle of the Christmas holidays, which are kept this year as last according to the general description previously given."

— Frederick Douglass

The Christmas Door Contest was a huge success. The first floor came out on top of the other floors this time and won for its theme and decor which was very well organized. Miss J. Hollis' homeroom, 9-3, was the overall homeroom winner of the contest.

The Senior Council also got into the swing of things, and did some caroling of their own. Adopting the eighth grade class, members of the Senior Council sang their rendition of "We wish you a Merry Christmas" and passed out candy to the homerooms. The Christmas spirit surely made itself known this year.

Making A Rebound

Our Varsity Boys Basketball team rebounded in more than one to claim a victorious season this year. Douglass managed to maintain a winning streak that greatly contrasted to last years' fluctuating season. Senior player Rodney Patrick, felt that the team's success was due to hard work, talent, discipline, the unity of the team and its Coach, Donald Dollar, all of which combined, uniquely for a winning result.

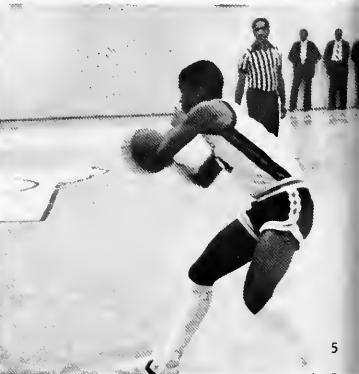

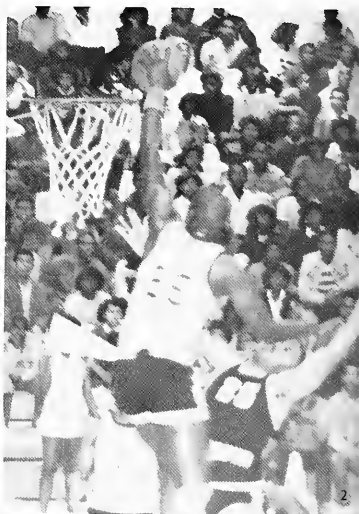

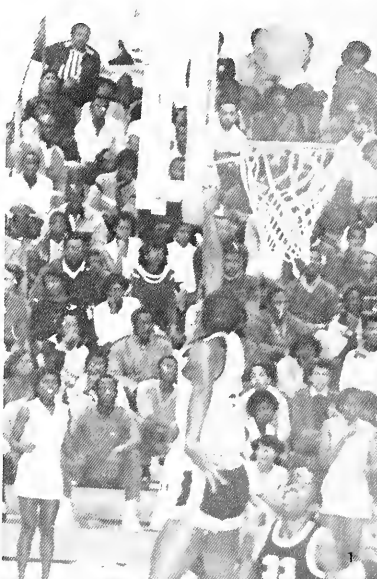

"They were every one of them, manly generous and brave, yes: I say they were brave and I will add fine looking"

— Frederick Douglass

Two members of this year's team were publically acknowledged for their athletic ability. The Atlanta Constitution rated Terry Martin as the number two senior high school basketball player in the state. Sharing the lane with him was Christopher Morris, the number three basketball player in the underclassmen category.

One of Douglass' most challenging games of the season occurred the second time we took on Harper High School on their court. Several Douglass fans were disappointed because they were not able to witness the second defeat of our long time rival team due to the limited amount of space and the ticket sell out. However the lucky and spirited Astros in attendance cheered our team on. Victory for Douglass was evident from the beginning of the game when Christopher Morris slam dunked four times in the first quarter. As the game progressed tensions rose on the court and as expected, Douglass came out on top. For we, as members of Frederick Douglass High School, know that whether we win or lose, the outcome is not nearly as important as the character developed in the struggle.

Varsity Girls Take On

A Successful Season

When a group has worked together as our Varsity Girls' Basketball Team has, it really understands the importance of teamwork in order to come out on top. This year's team was probably the most uniform of Douglass' previous teams. And though the girls did not claim as many victories as last year, they prevailed in teamwork and unity.

One of the best performances by the girls this season took place in our gymnasium when they took on Columbia High School. The event was practically sold out by halftime. Douglass dominated the game, with seniors Farlenity Martin and Donna Johnson as the high scorers.

'We were confident, bold and determined at times; and again doubting, timid and wavering'

— Frederick Douglass

Unlike the 1982-83 team, next year's team will be a young one. Douglass will lose seven of its members and will only have three remaining sophomores to carry the ball. Sophomore member Geri Norris stated, "We have no choice but to work exceptionally hard and better discipline ourselves to maintain the team's respected record."

Heading To The Top

The B-team girls' basketball team of 1982-83 was full of surprises. Although the team consisted of many inexperienced players, they showed a lot of talent on the basketball court. With Yolanda Underwood dribbling down the court and passing the ball to Mia Daniels for the jump shots the Astros appeared to be dangerous to their opponents.

The team's practices contributed greatly to their performances in the game. They practiced diligently each day on basketball skills, including jump shots, and free throws. Coach Fowlks' coaching also contributed to the success of the girls' team. When former B-team basketball players were asked to describe Coach Fowlks', they considered him to be one who is not interested so much in the winning the game, but how the team played the game.

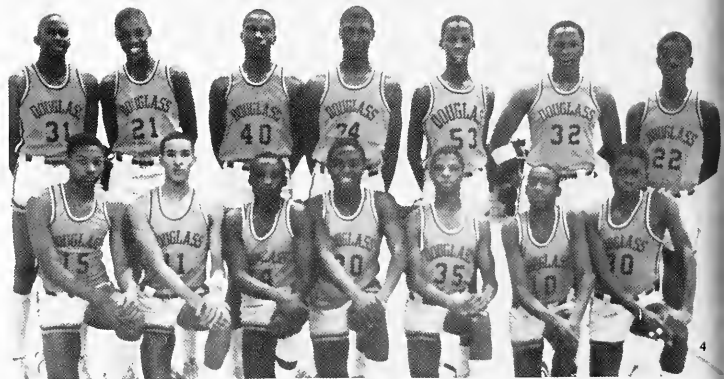

"The real distance was great enough, but the imagined distance to our ignorance was greater".

— Frederick Douglass

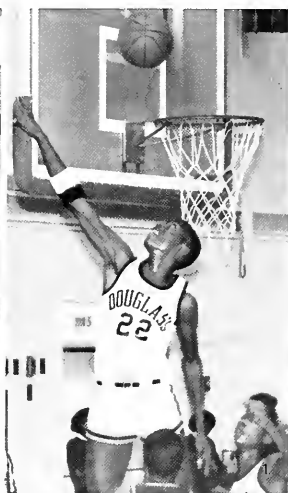

The B-team boys' basketball team exemplified extraordinary talent. Derrick Dennison, a ninth-grader, was awesome with his "slam dunks." The majority of the boys played eighth grade basketball which provided them with the needed experience to play B-team. Coach Trimble coached the boys' team and provided them with a solid basketball background, so they would be prepared for the Varsity team in the coming years.

For The Eighth- Graders

Watch Out NBA; Here We Come

The 1982-83 eighth-grade basketball teams of Douglass High were "tough." They kept their crowds enthused with their exciting offenses and their determined defenses. The fans could always sit back and wait for at least one thrilling jump shot the girls or a grusome blocked shot by the boys.

"The freedom from bodily torture and unceasing labor had given my mind an increased sensibility and imparted it to greater activity."

— Frederick Douglass

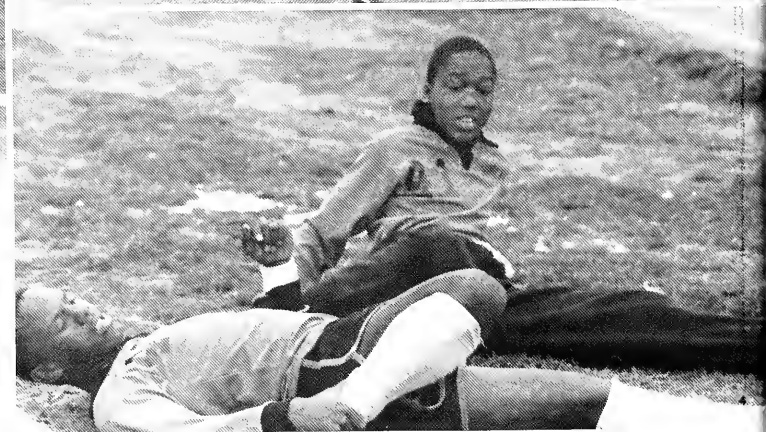

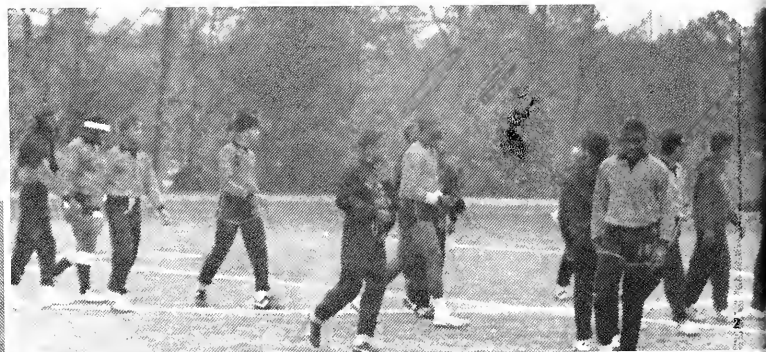

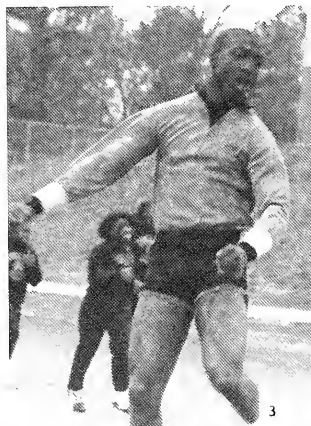

Coach Macmillan coached the girls this year. Each day, they worked on skills which sometimes included running to keep in shape. Many of the girls were experience in basketball playing, although their skills needed slight improvement.

Coach Pinkston coached the eighth grade boys. The talent on the team ranged from jumpers to dribblers to shooters, all of which contributed greatly to their successful season. They practiced each day, improving their basketball skills in preparation for the B-team next year.

For Winning

Soccer Excitement

Kicking, checking your opponent, controlling the ball, and scoring! This is soccer, Douglass Style.

Soccer is a game in which the ball is propelled toward the opponent's goal by kicking or by striking the ball with the body or head, but never with the hands. Although this a slow moving game, the Douglass soccer team made each game they played an exciting one. They did this by winning eight out of nine games they played, which was an improvement from last season. And although the team did not make the playoffs, they were still considered tops in terms of unity.

"The glory of success, and the shame and confusion of failure, could not be matters at indifference to me."

Frederick Douglass.

Also this season, the Douglass High record for scoring the most goals was broken by Richard Trammell named Most Valuable Player. He scored a total of thirteen goals during the season. Richard attributes the teams' success to hard work and says the teams' future looks promising.

Running In The Sun

The spring athletic activities for the 1982 season had an interesting outcome. The younger track teams displayed experience and talent while the varsity teams were stronger in their support for each other within the individual groups. Both Eighth Grade Track Teams were undefeated in all tri-meets at Lakewood Stadium. The majority of the girls had run previously in elementary school or for community organizations. Therefore, there was no problem in putting aside personal feelings and working together. Bridgette Williams, a freshman this year, looked forward to running for B-Team. The boys team was equally as talented and supportive. This year Douglass only had a B-Team Track for boys. The team's record was 3-1-0 against schools such as North Fulton, Harper, and Therrell.

"Hard work, night and day, over a furnace hot enough to keep the metal running like water, was more favorable to action than thought . . ."

— Frederick Douglass

The Girls Varsity Track Team was not very successful in terms of wins and losses, because the girls were young and not very experienced. At the beginning of the season many of them did not realize the work involved in running track. They eventually discovered the way to make a better team was to work as one. They proved themselves later by placing ninth in the Atlanta Relays against more than 20 schools and sixth in the region. The Boys Varsity Track Team consisted of very experienced and talented guys. They were accustomed to running together in previous years and ended the season with a good record. Captain Ricardo Martin felt confident that the 1983 team would be as successful under the guidance of Coach Pinkston.

Here Today, Gone Tomorrow

For many years, we have seen a lot of fashions come and go. But as the school year 1982-83 came about, we were faced with many new fashions everyday.

These fashions included cute mini-skirts, although some were worn not only in the summer, but for winter as well, and were the Oxford Shirts and sweater vests of all colors. When time went on, we started to see many guys in Saddle Oxfords of all sizes, and girls wearing the short boots. But this school year, it seemed as if everyone was either trying to be "Preppy" or talk and look like Moon Unit Zappa's Valley Girls." The so called "Preppy" consisted of Ralph Lauren's Polo shirts, ties, and pants. The wearing of stripes, plaids, argyle sweaters and socks, suspenders and Sebago shoes. The Valley Girl look just mostly consisted of the wearing of mini-skirts. But it wasn't really the look we were crazy about, it was the Valley Girl talk or language. This consisted of such phrases as "I mean like grody to the max man," and "You know like gag me with a spoon."

"Every man here was held individually responsible for his own conduct."

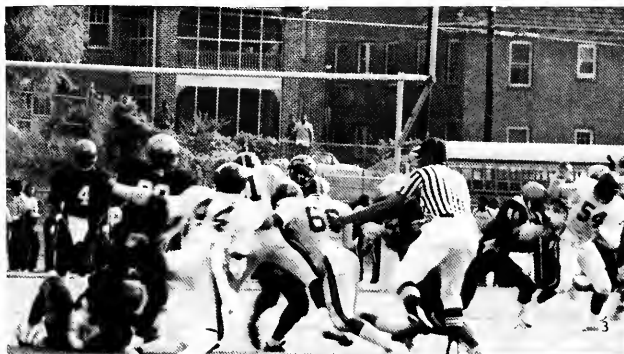

— Frederick Douglass

As far as jewelry went, the new fashion was the add-a-bead necklaces, ram head earrings, and the wearing of thousands of gold bangles on your arm.

Although not everyone was into this new trend "here today, gone tomorrow," we each had a special style of our own.

A Letter

From The Editor

Fellow Seniors and Astros,

As you peruse the 1983 Polaris Yearbook, you will no doubt immediately observe that the underlying theme throughout this issue is "the philosophy of Frederick Douglass". His philosophy was a system of values, beliefs, and convictions that are just as alive and meaningful for us today as they were for him during the barbarous era of slavery. Desire for freedom, strong character, sound spiritual and moral principles, personal dignity, and a sense of self-worth resound throughout the life, words, and deeds of this courageous man who championed the cause of his oppressed people.

Another very fundamental element of his philosophy important to us as students was his recurring emphasis on the development of one's mind. Frederick Douglass understood that an educated man would never be content to be enslaved. Though we are not bound by the physical and psychological shackles of slavery, we must never be content with what we know but forever strive to expand and broaden our mental dimensions. As children of the "computer age," we are accustomed to easier and faster ways of doing things. And yet, today's advanced technology has not leashed to any degree the need for individual knowledge and personal development. A well-constructed computer will never replace a well-cultivated mind. Only the trained mind can build or operate a computer. So we must be prepared to take advantage of the opportunities that continue to emerge out of the age of the computer.

The production of a yearbook is an awesome task — one that could never have been completed without a dedicated and talented staff and the guidance, support, and patience of administrators, faculty and, of course, the office secretaries. To all of you, I am eternally grateful.

It was fun and hard work, and a personally rewarding experience for me as editor. There were times of laughter and tears, assurance and frustration, excitement and weariness, not to mention the long hours after school and on weekends. But the real satisfaction comes when the job is complete, which makes it all worthwhile. It is my hope that you will take pride and pleasure in our finished product — the 1982 Polaris.

Now as we say good-bye and our lives go in many different directions, I wish each of you every opportunity to become all that you desire to be. And if your future, may you return often to the pages of this edition to remember old school days and to be inspired once again by the philosophy of Frederick Douglass.

That change is happening rapidly and that the future is difficult to see does not excuse us from preparing for it. It is now that we must make a philosophy instilled within us, in order to succeed in all that we set out to accomplish. In doing so, each of us should ask of ourselves the question that Frederick Douglass raised in his "What To The Slave Is The Fourth of July" speech — "How should I look today in the presence of Americans . . . ?" That is, how do we as Americans, as a race and as individuals look in terms of being prepared for the future? Are we ready to meet the demands of technological society?

Yes, already, we stand at the portals of a new life, a new world and a new destiny. For change is inevitable. And both those who are ready to meet change and those who have yet to cross its threshold, are called upon to prove that we are young men and women who are ready to take on the challenge of change.

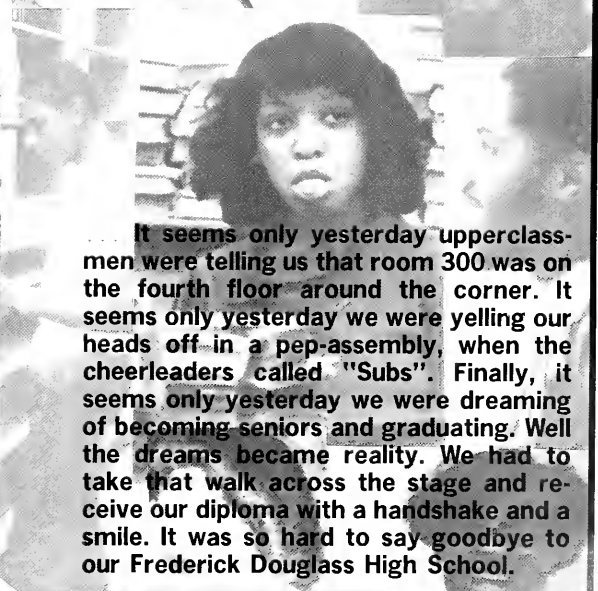

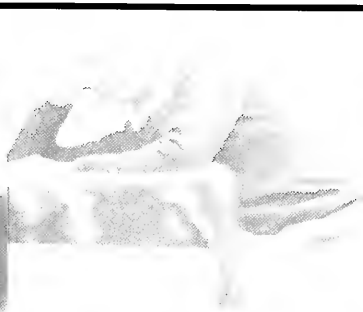

Where Did Time Go?

We wrapped up our fifth and final year at Frederick Douglass High in June of 1983. The time crept upon us in the midst of our many vigorous activities. The waiting was fun, though. And, how did it feel for a senior to leave? The emotions were mixed. We were only moving from one educational plan to another, but we had gained a sense of responsibility and independence. It all happened so fast. Where did the years go? It seems only yesterday we walked through those double doors for the first

It seems only yesterday upperclassmen were telling us that room 300 was on the fourth floor around the corner. It seems only yesterday we were yelling our heads off in a pep-assembly, when the cheerleaders called "Subs". Finally, it seems only yesterday we were dreaming of becoming seniors and graduating. Well the dreams became reality. We had to take that walk across the stage and receive our diploma with a handshake and a smile. It was so hard to say goodbye to our Frederick Douglass High School.

"Is it not astonishing that while we are plowing, planting, and reaping, using all kinds of mechanical tools, erecting houses, constructing bridges, building ships, working in metals of brass, iron, copper, silver and gold; that while we are reading, writing and cyphering, acting as clerks, merchants and secretaries, having among us lawyers, doctors, ministers, poets, authors, editors, orators and teachers; that while we are engaged in all the enterprises common to the other men — digging gold in California, capturing the whale in the Pacific, feeding sheep and cattle on the hillside, living in families as husbands, wives and children, and above all, confessing and worshipping the Christian God, and looking hopefully for life and immortality beyond the grave — we are called upon to prove that we are men?"

— Frederick Douglass

To My Loving Daughter
Margo,
Love,
Mama

Often your tasks will be many,
And more than you think you can do ...
Often your road will be rugged
And the hills insurmountable, too ...
But always remember,
the hills ahead

Are never as steep as they seem,
And with Faith in your heart

Start upward
And climb 'til you reach your dream,
For nothing in life that is worthy
Is ever too hard to achieve
If you have the Faith to believe ...
For Faith is a force that is greater
Than knowledge or power or skill

And many defeats turn into triumph
If you trust in God's wisdom and will ...

For Faith is a mover of mountains,
There's nothing that God cannot do,
So start out today

With Faith in your heart
And "Climb 'Til your Dream comes True"!

Well, you have finally come to the stage in life for which your family has been waiting. Your future happiness and success depend upon the task you take. Life can be beautiful; that is your decision to make. If a task is once begun, never leave it till it's done. Be the labor great or small do it well or not at all. There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done.
There are thousands to prophecy failure.
There are thousands to point out to you one by one,
The dangers that wait to assail you.
But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Just take off your coat and go at it.
Just start to sing as you tackle the thing,
That "cannot be done", and you'll do it.

Best Of Everything To My Daughter

Damita Ann Pugh

"Don't Quit"

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all up hill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high,
And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest, if you must — but don't you quit.

Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As everyone of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about
When he might have won had he stuck it out;
Don't give up, though the pace seems slow —
You might succeed with another blow.

Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man,
Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the victor's cup.
And he learned too late, when the night slipped down,
How close he was to the golden crown.

Success is failure turned inside out —
The silver tine of the clouds of doubt —
And you never can tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit —
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.

— Unknown

Robert, it's time to face your life
To extend your education
We hope we've helped you through the hard times
Your trials, your tribulations.

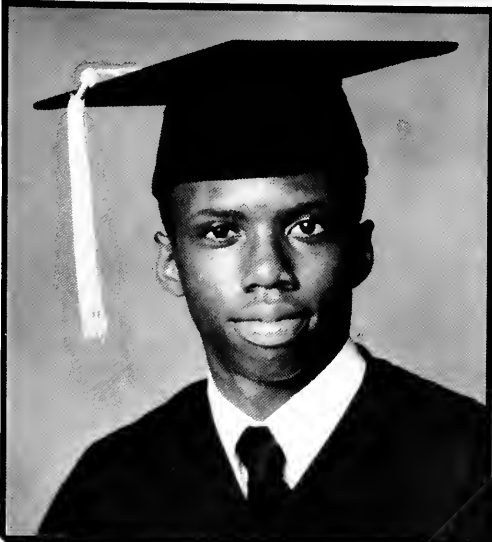

It's time to leave this dear ole school
To learn a little more
About the world we live in
To see what is in store.

We have taught you all we could
The best that we knew how
It's time for you to face the world
Remember — the beginning is just right now.

We truly love you dearly
And hate to see you leave
But, keep with you this one last thought
Believe in yourself — and you will succeed.

Seek God in all your endeavors.
Perceive what you want out of life.
Believe it and you shall receive it.

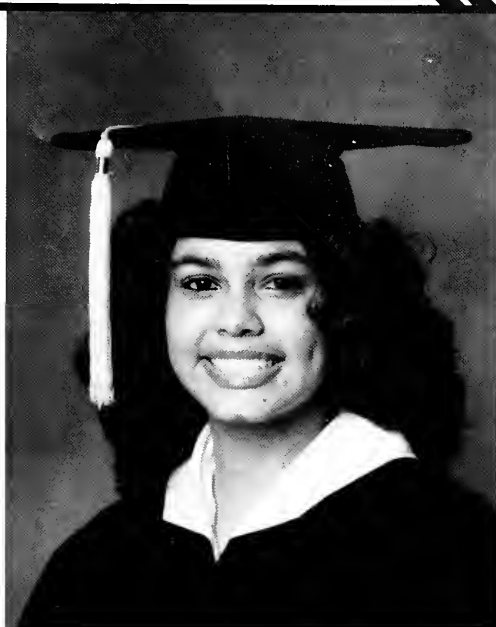

Because . . .

Today is yours — Live it.
Love is strong — Give it.
The past is gone — Forget it.
Your work is here — Do it.
The future is vast — Don't fear it.
If faith is asleep — Awake it.
Success is yours — Seize it.

"Passing Time"

How Quickly Pass The Days And Years.
Time Never Waits For Man.
Uncreasingly The Minutes Fly
To Fill A Waiting Span.
How Happy He Who May Look Back,
With Pleasure And Content,
Upon The Years Forever Gone
And Feel They Were Well Spent;
And Still Remember Present Time
Will Only Shortly Last
And Then Will Be, However Lived,
A Memory Of The Past.

From

What it means to come in first.

At First Atlanta, it means everything.

It means all our 117 years of helping Atlanta rebuild through Reconstruction to become the financial and cultural center of the Southeast.

It means all the years of training and experience of all 3,800 of our people.

It often means short lunches and long hours.

It means working longer and trying harder than the competition.

But as a result, it means being the best at what we do.

It means no other bank in Atlanta can offer its customers the reassurance, the resources and the resourcefulness that First Atlanta can.

So that no matter what economic possibilities the Eighties may bring, we not only will have been there before, but will know the best way to take advantage of them.

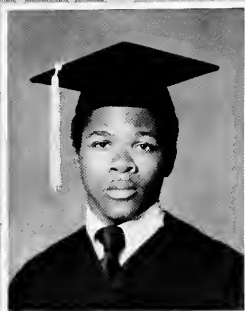

Very simply, it means that because we come in First, our customers do, too.

Don't Quit

When things go wrong
and they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all up
hill,
When the funds are low
and the debts are high,
When care is pressing you down a bit.
Rest if you must — but don't you quit.

Success Is Failure Turned Inside Out

The silver tint of the clouds of doubt
And you never can tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems a far;
So, stick to the fight when you're hardest hit
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.

Advanced Skill Training and $15,200 for College

If you have what it takes, the Army has openings in hundreds of different skill categories. If you qualify, we'll give you expert training in one of these fields, or many others of your choice:

- Telecommunications
- Mechanics
- Electronics
- Administration
- Law Enforcement
- Medical

In addition to the technological training and the valuable job experience, you could also receive $15,200 for future schooling, whether college or technical or trade school, if approved by the Veterans Administration. This program is called The Army College Fund. If you participate the money you save for college is matched two for one by the government. Then, if you qualify, the Army will add up to $8,000 on top of that!

THE ARMY COLLEGE BENEFITS

	Per Mo. $100	2 Yrs. $2,400	3 Yrs. $2,700*	4 Yrs. $2,700

Often Your Tasks Will Be Many ...
And More Than You Think You Can Do ...
Often The Road Will Rugged
And The Hills In Surmountable, Too ...
But Always Remember,
The Hills Ahead
Are Never As Steep As They Seem,
And With Faith In Your Heart
Start Upward
And Climb 'Til You Reach Your Dream
For Nothing In Life That Is Worthy
Is Ever Too Hard To Achieve
If You Have The Courage To Try It
And You Have The Faith To Believe ...
For Faith Is A Force That Is Greater
Than Knowledge Or Power Or Skill
And Many Defeats Turn To Triumph
If You Trust In God's Wisdom And Will ...
For Faith Is A Mover Of Mountains,
There's Nothing That God Cannot Do,
So Start Out Today
With Faith In Your Heart
And "Climb 'Til Your Dreams Come True!"

In cheering other people's ways
In doing just the best you can,

Its silence when your speech would hurt
Politeness when your neighbor's curt
It's deafness when the scandal flows
And sympathy with other's woes,
It's loyalty when duty calls,
It's courage when disaster falls,
It's patience when the hours are long,
It's found in laughter and in song,
It's in the silent time of prayer,
In happiness and in despair,
In all of life and nothing less,
We find the thing we call success

On Your Graduation and Always

If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the will which says to them: "Hold on!"
If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings — nor lose common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute,
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And — what is more — you'll be a man, my Son!

— Rudyard Kipling

This is only a phase of your life which can never be repeated. As you gaze into the great "out yonder" a feeling of fear and apprehension will grip your being. But you and you alone must move forward to the unknown.

In spite of these feelings I have enough confidence in you to believe that through the help of the Almighty, you will have the foresight to recognize your capabilities, the perseverance to pursue your opportunities, and the initiative to meet the qualifications that will be essential for success in reaching your specific goals.

To Irene

It seems as though we've known each for a long time but through so many people and different of-stacks. But as the years went by we became closer. Right now Irene it's rather hard for me to express the type of friendship we have. Really what I think I should be telling you is stay nice, sweet, and cute and you will have quite a lot of fortune come your way.
